From the Official "Report of the Progress of the Ordnance Survey."—"The first Half-Inch Map which achieved any considerable degree of popularity was the Map on the 'layer' system produced and published by Mr J. Bartholomew. . . . They were particularly in request by Officers of the Army. After some years of discussion the War Office decided that it was in the National Interest that Official Maps of this type should be used by the Army. . . ."

LONDON

THE capital of England, the centre of the Government and commerce of the British Empire, London, politically, financially, and commercially, as well as on account of its immense size and population, forms a very remarkable feature in the history of civilisation. Capital of the Trinobantes, with the Celtic name of Llyn-Din ("fort on the pool"), it appears as early as A.D. 61 as the Londinium of the Romans, and was then a place of importance, Colonia Augusta being another of its Roman designations. Three important events have especial prominence in the pre-Norman history of London; namely, the foundation of the bishopric, supposed to have taken place in A.D. 179; the rebuilding and fortifying of the town by the Romans in 306; and the founding of St Paul's by Ethelbert early in the 7th century. In 1079 the White Tower was built by William I., who, in the same year, granted the city its first charter, a document which is still extant. A charter granted by King John in 1189 authorised the annual election of a mayor and corporation. Conspicuous landmarks in the course of the city's history are:—London destroyed by Boadicea, A.D. 61; rebuilt by Theodosius about 306; ravaged by plague, 644; burnt, 798 and 801; made the capital by King Alfred, 893; made a mint town by Athelstane in 925; burnt, 1077; and again in 1136; first mayor appointed, 1190; wasted by plague, 1349 and 1369; scene of Wat Tyler's rebellion, 1381; first lighted by lanterns, 1416; scene of Jack Cade's rebellion, 1450; also date of first lord mayor's show; visited by plague, 1500, 1525, and 1548; houses first built of brick, 1470; Lady Jane Grey appeared in the city, 1553; visited by James I. in 1603; first newspaper published, 1622; first hackney coach appeared, 1634; coal first used, 1640; Charles I. beheaded at Whitehall, 1649; visited by Cromwell, 1651; ravaged by great plague, 1664-66; nearly destroyed by fire, 1666; G.P.O. established 1711; Gordon Riots took place, 1780; first canal opened, 1801; cabs first in use, 1820; New London Bridge opened, 1831; first Great World's Exhibition held, 1851; great fire in Tooley Street, 1861; second great Exhibition, 1862; great explosion of gunpowder in Erith Marshes, 1864; Queen Victoria's Jubilee, 1887; Tower Bridge opened, 1894; Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee celebrations, 1897; Funeral of Queen Victoria, 1901; Coronation of King Edward VII., 1902, died 1910; George V. crowned, 1911; Great Britain enters the Great War, Aug. 1914; London attacked from the air, May 1915; Peace Celebrations, 19th May 1919; British Empire Exhibition at Wembley, 1924-25; Regent Street rebuilt, 1927; Lloyd's new building opened, 1928; Thanksgiving Service for recovery of King George V. from serious illness, July 1929. Modern London has no clearly defined limits, and the determination of its unofficial boundaries is yearly becoming more difficult through its rapid and wide suburban extension. Roughly speaking, the whole metropolis may be estimated to cover about 700 square miles. The areas and populations within various divisional boundaries are as follow:—

	Area in sq. mls.	population
Administrative County (exclusive of City)	115¾	4,470,814
Registration London	116¾	4,484,523
"Greater London"	693	7,480,201
Consisting of—
Metropolitan Police District	692	7,466,492
City of London Police District	1	13,709
Central Criminal Court District	420½	6,762,449

(The figures for the City Police District represent the night population.)

The metropolis is singularly fortunate in the possession of public parks, which for extent and beauty are unsurpassed by any open spaces belonging to other large cities. The chief are:—In the W., St James' Park, the Green Park, Hyde Park, and Kensington Gardens; in the N., the Regent's Park, containing the Gardens of the Zoological Society and the Botanical Society; in the S.W., Battersea Park, and in the E., Victoria Park. In the suburbs, at no great distance, are other parks and several extensive commons. As the seat of the Government of the Empire, the commercial emporium of Britain, the home of British literature, art, and science, and the place of residence, at special seasons, of the wealthier classes from all parts of the country, it is natural that London should abound with interesting, stately, and imposing buildings of all descriptions. The Imperial Parliament sits in the Houses of Parliament (foundation stone laid in 1840); in St James' (almost entirely rebuilt after the fire of 1809) and Buckingham Palaces, Court functions are held, and the Government departments (civil, military, and naval) are accommodated in buildings in Whitehall and in Somerset House. Within the city, which is about 1 sq. mile in area, are the Guildhall and Mansion House, the property of the Corporation, the Bank of England, which, (with the Clearing House) is the centre of the banking-system of the country, the Royal Exchange, the Mint, and the General Post Office. Outside is the British Museum, connected with which is the Natural History Museum at South Kensington, and Art is represented by the National Gallery, the National Gallery of British Art, the Wallace Collection in Hertford House, and the Victoria and Albert Museum. St Paul's Cathedral and Westminster Abbey are the finest and most important churches; the latter especially being of interest from its antiquity, and as the burial-place of the most distinguished men of the nation. London is also the supreme seat of judicature. The principal courts are congregated in the new Law Courts (opened in 1882) in the Strand. Members of the legal profession are admitted by the Inns of Court and the Law Society. To London converge the four great railways, where are most of the head offices of the companies and the Railway Clearing House. Education is represented by many well-known institutions. London University confers degrees, honours, and prizes on both sexes (except in the faculty of medicine). Of the colleges, University College and King's College are the principal. Medical education, at the head of which stand the Royal College of Physicians and the Royal College of Surgeons, is actively carried on in the hospitals. The Royal College of Music, the Royal Academy of Music, the Royal Academy of Arts, and other institutions provide for education in art. The Chief public schools are Westminster, St Paul's, City of London Schools, and University College Schools. Half a million children are educated in the primary schools. The water supply of the town is drawn, and after filtration distributed, from the Thames, Lee, New River, and from wells and springs, and is controlled by a Water Board. The County Council is the authority under the Gas Regulation Act, 1920. Electric lighting is in the hands of companies or of the local authorities. Markets exist for almost every commodity that has a sufficient mercantile importance. A distinguished feature in metropolitan enterprise is the number and variety of means adopted for the conveyance of passengers and goods. The Metropolitan and the Metropolitan District Railways, the Central London and other tube electric railways carry many millions of passengers in the year, and there is an immense number of omnibuses, tramway cars, taxis and cabs. A large goods traffic is carried on upon the Regent, Grand Junction, and other canals. Many bridges cross the Thames, the most noteworthy as an engineering work being the Tower Bridge. The trade of London comprises every department of active commercial enterprise that is usually associated with a great city.

In its foreign commerce London shows an excess of imports over exports; it is a distributing centre for all descriptions of produce from every quarter of the globe. To meet the exigences of this multifarious traffic, a vast amount of dock accommodation has been provided. The docks extend for several miles along the river, from the Tower to Woolwich. The City is governed by a Lord Mayor, 26 Aldermen, and 206 Common Councilmen, and some share in its management is vested in the Livery Companies. The title of Lord Mayor was first conferred by Edward III. in 1354; Aldermen were first appointed as early as 1242.

* The decrease has been caused by the steady process of decentralisation which has been going on within recent years and the consequent migration to suburban areas, even outside the administrative county.

COUNTY OF LONDON

The county of London is a true geographical and legal county, or "shire," with Lord-Lieutenant, High Sheriff, and County Council. The co. was created by the Local Government Act of 1888, and was formed from parts of the counties of Middlesex, Surrey, and Kent, and the ancient City of London, not hitherto within any co. but included in the co. of London for non-administrative purposes. The administrative co. (including City) contains on area of 74,850 ac., and has a population of (1921.) 4,484, 523. The entire co., including the City, is under the jurisdiction of the Central Criminal Court; there is one Court of Quarter Sessions. The London County Council has many special municipal powers, being the main drainage and fire authority for the whole co. Also, by the Local Government Act of 1899, the county, exclusive of the City of London, has been divided in 28 metropolitan boroughs. These boroughs have each a council presided over by a mayor. The county is almost entirely within the dioceses of London and Rochester; Lambeth Palace, with 74 persons, is in the diocese of Canterbury.

CARTOGRAPHERS · TO · THE · KING

JOHN BARTHOLOMEW & SON LTD

DUNCAN STREET EDINBURGH

Map Makers since 1820

FOR more than 100 years the Bartholomews of Edinburgh have been actively engaged in making the World's finest Maps. Their name has always been identified with accuracy, clearness, beauty, and all that stands for progress in Cartography.

Their Geographical Institute has been specially planned for the development of their particular class of work, equipped with the finest machinery and the latest appliances calculated to aid in perfecting the various processes of Drawing, Engraving, Lithographing and Printing of Atlases, Maps, Plans and every kind of Cartographical work.

There is a large staff of skilled Geographical Draughtsmen, engravers, artists and printers, and all work is carried out under the personal supervision of Mr John Bartholomew, F.R.S.E., F.R.G.S., Cartographer to the King.

Estimates for any class of Geographical work will gladly be furnished on request.

Any of Bartholomew's Maps and Atlases may be obtained through your Bookseller.

BARTHOLOMEW'S

PLAN OF LONDON

SHOWING

POSTAL DISTRICTS

Scale : 2 inches to one mile

Size, 40 × 27 inches

A map of moderate size, showing clearly the Main Postal Districts and Sub-districts embraced within the Area administered by the London County Council will be found extremely useful in every office. The area included in this Plan extends from Wood Green on the north to Crystal Palace on the south, and from Ilford and Woolwich on the east to Ealing and Isleworth on the west. Special bands of colour distinguish the Main Postal Districts, while the Sub-districts are clearly defined by red lines, with their appropriate numbers in plain block figures. The topographical detail is extensive, and enables anyone consulting the Plan to see at a glance in which Postal District and Sub-district any street or public building lies. Despite the large number of places included in the Plan, the names will be found to be wonderfully clear and distinct.

ENGLAND and WALES

Scale, 12 miles to an inch

TO meet the exacting demands of the ever-increasing army of motorists has severely taxed the ingenuity and resources of the the map-maker; but, by a happy combination of labour, this entirely new map has been prepared by Messrs BARTHOLOMEW in conjunction with the Automobile Association. The scale chosen was decided on by the experts of the Automobile Association after much deliberation, as being the best for a general touring map. It allows of a vast amount of detail being clearly expressed within the limits of a sheet measuring 36½ by 28 inches. The map embraces the whole of England and Wales, the Isle of Man, and Scotland as far north as Edinburgh and Glasgow, and a careful perusal of it will enable the motorist to move from point to point with safety and facility. The most important feature of the map is the unique system which has been adopted for road-marking. This classification does not follow the lines of any old-fashioned or administrative system, but is based entirely on the investigations of the Automobile Association's own road officials. Further improvements have been made in new editions of the map. Arterial roads are printed red, other Main roads orange, Secondary roads green, connecting Links purple, and roads under construction as dotted lines, while some two thousand "spot heights" on roads are given. Ferries and road tolls are indicated. Congested and industrial areas are shown on an inset map. Land surface relief is marked by delicate colour shading to altitudes of 250, 500, 1000, 1500, and 2000 feet; but this colouring has been made subordinate to the road marking. Mileages are printed in red and Railways are shown by black lines, but the primary object of the map is the clear delineation of the roads. It is, without doubt, the most up-to-date map of its kind, and several large editions have already been called for.

BARTHOLOMEW'S
SCOTLAND

Scale, 12 miles to an inch

THIS map forms the northern extension of the map of England and Wales on the same scale already issued by the Automobile Association, and so favourably received alike by members and the public as being the last word in motoring maps. The area of country embraced in this sheet extends from Appleby in the south to John o' Groats and Orkney in the north, while from east to west it reaches from the North Sea to the Hebrides. All the essential features which are so much appreciated by motorists in the Map of England and Wales, have been reproduced here. Arterial roads are printed in red, other main roads buff, secondary roads green, connecting links purple, and roads under construction by dots. Surface relief is shown by colour tinting from sea-level to 250, 500, 1000, 1500, 2000, 3000 feet and upwards. Railways are shown by black lines so exiguous as not to impair a clear view of the roads, which is the primary object of a map for the use of motorists. The map will be much appreciated by those who contemplate traversing the roads of the land of lochs and bens.

CITIZEN'S ATLAS OF THE WORLD

IN the Fourth Edition of this well-known Atlas, all the dislocations and reconstructions brought about by the various treaties of the past few years, as well as the subsequent modifications made by the League of Nations and the Conferences of Ambassadors, have been given effect to. In other respects, each Map has been carefully revised with the latest official material available at the date of going to press. The Atlas proper is preceded by interesting statistics of population, an etymology of place names, a succinct chronological account of geographical discovery, and a brief statement of recent territorial changes. It is also equipped with a very full Index of about 96,000 names.

The Atlas consists of 192 pages of fully coloured Maps, with double-page coloured Frontispiece, Flags of all Nations, a full and exhaustive Index of 212 pages, and 12 pages of Geographical Statistics, etc.

A NEW ATLAS

BARTHOLOMEW'S
GRAPHIC ATLAS
of the WORLD

TO publish a large general Atlas of the World at the price of a new novel is a task undertaken by few. The production, however, is in no way "cheap"; the only cheap part is the price. The atlas, which is absolutely up to date, contains 128 pages of fully coloured maps of every part of the world, along with an index of 64 pages, is excellently printed on high-class paper, is very strongly bound in cloth boards and finished with an arresting coloured jacket. Without a doubt this is the finest value offered to the public for many years. The size of the book is 7½″ by 10½″ by 1″.

On MERCATOR'S PROJECTION

Size, 6 feet by 4 feet.

THIS popular World-Chart maintains its pre-eminent position as the most reliable and up-to-date map of its kind. To Merchants, Exporters, and Shippers it is invaluable, and should find a prominent place on the walls of every commercial office. In schools, libraries, and public institutions it will be welcome as an ever-ready work of reference. Within the four borders of this map a perfect mine of useful commercial facts and oceanographical knowledge is exposed with a clarity that makes consultation easy.

The political boundaries of all countries are shown in colour. Deep-sea surroundings are expressed in fathoms; the cold, warm, and periodical currents of the oceans, with arrows pointing to the direction of their flow, are displayed; steamship routes, with the distances in nautical miles between ports, are shown; submarine cables and great telegraph lines are included; and navigable rivers and the chief canals all find a place.

To add to the interest of the map, two insets are given—one of the North Polar Region, and one of the South Polar Region.

On the margins of the Chart are figures giving the time by the clock in different parts of the world when it is noon at Greenwich, and another set of figures indicating the duration of the longest day.
